COLONEL W. HAYS.—We publish in another column a note from Springfield, calling attention to the merits of this officer, and urging his promotion. What is stated in the note respecting Colonel Hays is nothing more than the truth. We second the suggestion of our correspondent with as sincere pleasure as we ever did anything in our lives. We know Colonel Hays well, and we have watched his career in the army with lively interest and with increasing admiration. He is one whom the Government can but delight to honor, and in a just light before the public, and, moreover, as an act of special justice to their constituents, we give below a statement of the political grounds on which these representatives were elected. The statement is not so complete as it might be in respect to some of them, but it is entirely authentic in respect to all.

We the other day published in this relation the following extract from the platform adopted by the Union State Convention held in Louisville on the 18th of March last, but we here give the extract anew for the sake of distinctness:

Resolved, That our institutions are assailed by an armed rebellion on one side which may only be met by the other side, and on the other by unconstitutional acts of Congress, and starting usurpations of power by the Executive, which we have seen by experiment can be corrected by the ballot-box. Policy, as well as principle, requires that Kentucky shall bring the process of reform, which is slow but sure, and refrain from all unlawful and unconstitutional acts, which have already brought terrible calamities upon the country, whilst we invoke the aid of all patriotic men to avert the evils that threaten our free institutions.

Resolved, That this General Assembly, now in the exercise of its right to deliberate in opinion with the National Executive, enters its solemn protest against the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated 1st of January, 1863, by which he assumes to emancipate all slaves within certain States, and that the same be to the Union, unconstitutional, and void.

Resolved, That this General Assembly declares that the power which has recently been assumed by the President of the United States, whereby, under the guise of military necessity, he has proclaimed and extended martial law over States where war did not exist, and has suspended the writ of habeas corpus, is unwarranted by the Constitution, and its tendency is to subordinate civil to military authority, and to subvert constitutional and free government.

Resolved, That this General Assembly, with pleasurable hope the recent manifestations of conservatism and moderation in the people of the non-slaveholding States in their late elections, and regard the same as the earnest of a good purpose on their part to cooperate with all other loyal citizens, give security to the rights of every section, and maintain the Union and the Constitution as they were ordained by the founders of the Republic.

Such is the declaration of hostility to the administration and of devotion to the government adopted by the Union State Convention in Kentucky. It is the twofold declaration which constitutes the policy of not only of the Union men of Kentucky but of the conservatives of the Union at large.

The District Convention, which nominated Mr. Anderson as the Union candidate for Congress in the First District, adopted unanimously a short series of resolutions, of which the second resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That we hereby endorse the resolutions adopted by the Union State Convention held in the city of Louisville on the 18th of March last, and that we will support no Congress or any other official action, and endorse said resolutions and is pledged to enforce the whole resources of the country in regard to the war to maintain the constitution and laws of the country.

Mr. Anderson was present at the convention, and in a speech before the body accepted the nomination on the platform thus re-affirmed. Furthermore, he subsequently circulated an address throughout the District, pleading his personal hostility to the whole negro policy of the administration. So we are enabled to inform you that it is that during the canvass as ever before he was accustomed publicly to couple abolitionism with secessionism and to proclaim his undying warfare against both alike.

The address of Mr. Brutus J. CLAY to the people of his District was subjoined in full:

TO THE VOTERS OF THE SEVENTH CONGRESS.—SIR:—In accepting the nomination by the Union Convention as candidate for Congress in the Seventh District, I am conscious that I am assuming a heavy responsibility. I am aware that I am assuming a heavy responsibility. I am aware that I am assuming a heavy responsibility.

But I do not regard revolution, or secession, or a submission to the rebellion, as the remedies for this evil policy, they being only comparatively greater. The remedies are in the Union, and under the Constitution and laws, through the Legislatures and Judicial tribunals. Should the Union be restored, I would be for the courts of the slave States to decide upon the legal effects of the President's proclamation of emancipation.

factually defeat, by pressing the war to a speedy close, in destroying the armies of our enemies, in the wake of our victorious army, and see the Constitution and law and order restored in every State of the Union, under which the rights of persons and property will be secured and protected. This is my position—this is my platform.

That is to say, he deliberately took his position in the Democratic ranks, and pledged himself, if elected, to fight in the ranks of the rebels, and to be given more unequivocally. The District Convention, which nominated Mr. Randall as the Union candidate in the Eighth District, went a step further in condemning the policy of the administration than any other District Convention held in Kentucky pending the canvass, and went further than the State Convention itself, formally approving, as the convention above-mentioned did, the Congressional course of the late Representative, who throughout his term opposed the policy of the administration side by side with the rest of the Union delegates.

Resolved, That we approve of the course of our late Representative in Congress, Hon. G. W. DUNN, who was elected to Congress, Hon. G. W. DUNN, who was elected to Congress, Hon. G. W. DUNN, who was elected to Congress.
